Virginia Mothers Committee Seeks Nominations For The 1980 Mother of the Year

Mrs. James v. Giles, State President, announces that nominations are now being accepted for Virginia Mother of the year.

Candidates must be sponsored by a religious, civic, fraternal, state or local organization not by an individual or a member of the nominee's family. Nominee should be a mother who is making contributions to enrich the lives of her family, community, church or synagogue. Her youngest child must be over the age of 15. She must be at least 45 and less than 76.

Nomination blanks with complete information may be obtained from the 1980 Search Chairman:

Mrs. C. L. Pulliam
822 Old Brook Road
Charlottesville, Virginia 22901

All entries should be completed and in the hands of the Search Chairman by January 28, 1980. Judging will be on February 9, 1980, with the Awards presentation in April.

The American Mothers Committee, headquartered in New York City, thru a National Jury, selects from the 50 'state Mothers' the 'National" Mother of the year. The National meeting will be in Phoenix, Arizona in May.

Mrs. Charles P. Minor, Jr. of Hopewell was the 1979 Virginia Mother.

Mrs. Early Franklin of Spout Spring is shown presenting a chair to Grover Beasley, Jr. The chair, over one hundred years old, was made by "Junior's" grandfather, Benjamin Walker Beasley of the Hollywood community of this county. A cabinet-maker by trade, Mr. Beasley died around the year of 1896.

Chair Made By Mr. Beasley Returned To Family

Benjamin Walker Beasley made a set of chairs over one hundred years ago for Frederick Franklin. The chairs, in turn, were handed down to Frederick's son, Cliff Franklin. Then, still being good, usable chairs, they were to be handed down for further use to Cliff's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Early Franklin.

"We make our fortunes, and we call them fate."
Benjamin Disraeli

However, before the chairs were given to Early Franklin and his wife, a fire destroyed the home of Cliff Franklin and all but one of the chairs were lost. The one chair-escaping the fire was on the front porch of the home and someone threw it out into the front yard to safety. Thus, only one of the original chairs was passed down to Early.

Approximately forty years ago, Mrs. Early Franklin carefully replaced the original split-bottom of the one remaining chair. Tediously marking off the splits on a piece of hickory wood, she cut the splits and replaced the worn bottom with new hickory splits.

Mrs. Franklin remembers her father-in-law saying, "be sure to take care of my chair!" She was determined to do just that. The chair had been in the Franklin family for three generations and now Mrs. Franklin thought it about time the chair was passed on to a member of the Beasley family ... Grover Beasley, Jr. was the fortunate one!

Now Junior not only has a chair made by his grandfather but he also has some of his grandfather's shop tools including wood planes made of cedar with cedar knobs and cedar screws.

Over 100 years olad and still a lot of good "sitting" left in that chair. Just think of all the tales of the "good old days" that chair could tell ... if only that chair could talk!!

Next Monday marks the opening of small game (quail, rabbit, squirrel, etc.) season in Virginia. If there are young hunters in your family, this weekend would be a great opportunity to re-emphasize some basic gun safety practices. Each year there are many youngsters injured by weapons that "were not loaded." The basic rule is treat every gun as if it were loaded.

David Stratton, 18 year old State Secretary of the Virginia FFA Association will represent Virginia as an official delegate to the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Missouri, this week. One of 3 official delegates from Virginia, Stratton will be a part of a 122 FFA member delegation that will conduct the business of the National FFA Organization during business sessions of the Future Farmers of America's 52nd National FFA Convention.

David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Stratton of Appomattox and was elected state FFA Secretary at the Virginia FFA Convention in June of 1979. He is currently attending Virginia Tech, and majoring in Agricultural Education.

Bite Doesn't Close Right On 22 Million U.S. Children

A government study reveals that almost 22 million American children aged 12-17 have bite that do not close right. More than six million of these need braces because their condition is severe.

The study, conducted by the former Department of Health, Education and Welfare, indicates that more than half of the children requiring orthodontic treatment are boys.

Orthodontics is the special field of dentistry which aligns teeth and jaws to correct the bite for long-term dental health.

Members of the Southern Society of Orthodontists have two years of training in orthodontics after completing dental school.
